

A Child's View of WWII: Myth and Reality on the Home Front

The World War II experience has generally been told from the perspective of veterans and spouses, but now we can shift our attention to their children. What was it like to grow up in a small New Hampshire town with neighbors, parents, and older siblings heading off to war? How did government policy and propaganda affect everyday life for children of that time?

Debra (Lamson) Perkins was preparing to enter school in Elkins when her father enlisted in the U.S. Navy – leaving his wife and daughter for nearly three years. Deb will share recollections and family memorabilia from that period, supplemented by posters and images from the New London Archives presented by Jim Perkins.

Debra Lamson Perkins

Jim Perkins

Wednesday, March 8, 4-5 PM

Lethbridge Lodge, Colby-Sawyer College

Limited Seats. RSVP Required.

www.ailcsc.com/communityspotlight

A Child's View of WWII: Myth and Reality on the Home Front

The World War II experience has generally been told from the perspective of veterans and spouses, but now we can shift our attention to their children. What was it like to grow up in a small New Hampshire town with neighbors, parents, and older siblings heading off to war? How did government policy and propaganda affect everyday life for children of that time?

Debra (Lamson) Perkins was preparing to enter school in Elkins when her father enlisted in the U.S. Navy – leaving his wife and daughter for nearly three years. Deb will share recollections and family memorabilia from that period, supplemented by posters and images from the New London Archives presented by Jim Perkins.

Debra Lamson Perkins

Jim Perkins

Wednesday, March 8, 4-5 PM

Lethbridge Lodge, Colby-Sawyer College

Limited Seats. RSVP Required.

www.ailesc.com/communityspotlight